Find the real problem.
Build the real fix.

StrideForward is strategy, program design, and hands-on implementation for small teams with meaningful ambitions. We bring the thinking and the working capacity, so the next step is not one more thing you carry alone.

WHO WE WORK WITH

- Small businesses
- Small nonprofits and community groups
- Founders and side hustlers
- Education ventures

Six services

Market research and positioning
Know who you serve before you spend.

Customer experience design
Map the experience before you fix it.

Program development
Programs built for the people they serve.

New revenue services and products
Turn what you know into something people pay for.

Business development and sales
Partnerships and sales with a reason to move forward.

Human-centered AI workflows
AI that takes repeat work off your team, with people making the calls.

Three ways to work

A defined project
One piece of work, start to finish, with a fixed scope and fee.

Fractional support
A partner inside your team for set hours each month, reviewed every quarter.

Build-for-you packages
We build it for you, then hand it over working or keep it running.

Packages: one-job AI setup · AI workflow starter · website build · social media and email setup · AI team build · owner's command center · build and manage.

Gina Wilt, EdD, MBA

Founder of StrideForward, in Phoenix, Arizona. Her work sits at the intersection of education, leadership, and program design, and she runs her own businesses on the AI workflows she sets up for clients.

I HAVE BUILT WHAT YOU ARE BUILDING

- More than twenty years building learning programs and education ventures.
- Directed and scaled a market-facing professional learning business inside a large public university.
- Helped HIKI Education in Hawai'i make its professional learning easy for school leaders to understand and contract.
- Runs voice guides, planning briefs, and follow-up playbooks on AI across her own businesses.

> "Gina did not just consult, she built alongside us. She provided the business development framework and high-leverage assets we needed to go to market with confidence, and she translated our cultural mission into a clear, actionable strategic plan."

How work starts

01
A free discovery call
Thirty minutes with Gina, no preparation.

02
A one-page scope note
Within two business days: the work, the timeline, and the fee.

03
The work, handed over
Nothing starts until you say yes.
